

Style Counsel with Chantelle Znideric

Every month, Surrey style goddess Chantelle Znideric brings you all the latest fashion news from in and around the county

WELCOME to our brand-new fashion column featuring leading style guru, Chantelle Znideric. One of the county's top personal stylists, and founder of popular fashion blog TopStylista.com, Chantelle is an expert in helping Surrey ladies to look their best.

"Having worked with some of the most popular boutiques in the county, I know you can find exquisite fashion right on our doorstep," says Chantelle. "We are absolutely spoilt rotten in Surrey with some of the finest designers and brands available, but sometimes we aren't aware of what is out there and where to find them."

With that in mind, over the coming months she will be reporting on everything from new shops opening in the county to charity fashion shows, as well as identifying new trends and where to find them here in Surrey...

With summer having been something of a let-down this year, why not cheer yourself up and start planning your autumn wardrobe? If you haven't done so already, there's no better time to visit the Surrey boutiques to get an exclusive preview of their exciting autumn collections.

One shop that certainly has plenty to be excited about this month is Catwalk in Godalming. As well as celebrating their seventh birthday this September, they also opened their second shop in Esher earlier this year. Renowned for stocking a fantastic range of individual brands, they have successfully built up a loyal clientele over the years.

This season, Catwalk's signature brands will all be offering us something new. Save the Queen has produced a series of quirky, ethnic inspired designs whilst Turnover creates a timeless new casual collection and Karen Cole has extended her fabulous knitwear range, offering luxurious must-buys to complete every autumn wardrobe.

Catwalk will also be introducing some exciting new collections by Maliparmi, Tarmon Jarmon and Oui Set, providing strong emphasis on evening and special occasion wear.

Meanwhile, over in Reigate, the turn of the new season sees top designer boutique Courtyard opening the doors of their third shop. Courtyard will be stocking the most sought after collections by such well-known designers as Chloe, Matthew Williamson, Missoni, Amendment Jeans and Juicy Couture, to name but a few, and is prominently situated on the High Street.

Now if all that isn't enough to whet your appetite, I don't know what is!
